

DAVE
MERCHANT

Let the spring sports season begin!

It didn't end the way any Michigan State University fan wanted it to but I have to admit it was fun to watch them get to the National Championship on Monday night.

North Carolina was a good team and like Michigan State Coach Tom Izzo said, it was going to take them playing their best game in order to take down the mighty Tar Heels. Things didn't happen that way and the Spartans were sent home as the runner-up.

Not bad if you consider they were underdogs the entire last week. No one picked them to beat Louisville and neither announcer on CBS picked them to beat the University of Connecticut. So the team went a lot farther than anyone picked them to.

It still had to be exciting for the players and the coaches to play at Ford Field in what could be considered a home game for MSU. East Lansing is only about 90 miles from Detroit. The players didn't have their best game, to say the least, and for the most part North Carolina led by double digits almost the entire game.

The game itself probably wasn't a lot of fun for the Spartan coaches or players but I bet when they look back at the experience the entire week and the tournament run will be something

Track Attack

Photos by Phil Hecksel
Pictured here is Kortlyn Johnson, left, Sammy Rohrback, right, running in one of the relay events at the BHS track teams' March 31 meet vs. Romulus

Girls and boys team kick season off with a strong start

L
ju 3-

If t
about offens
ing th
on Ma
were later
win o
in wh
15 hit

Whi
Kenne
quite as th
Trojan
coach
is ha
her en
effort 3-1 st
head i
break

"So
really with t
she sa
get al
and some y
that ping u
other
are fi
time t
the kid

In sh
depth small p
also th
the pi
the cat

Sam
and ga Kenne

BASE
St
for

The
baseba
lost th